Since 2016, titanium has been added to the glass. This unique formula gives our giftware items crystal clear shine.

An interview with Lubor Cerva, published in Tableware International Jan/Feb issue 2019.

It's a year of celebrations for Crystalite Bohemia – not only is the Czech glass manufacturer celebrating 50 years of its Svetla glass factory, but it also celebrates a decade under its current ownership. We talk to owner Lubor Cerva about the challenges and opportunities of glass manufacturing today and find out more about its investments in its handmade factory and re-launch of its handmade brand Lubor, this year you celebrate 10 years of ownership – what have been the challenges? All factories have their challenges, but with glass you have the added challenge of the material and processes. The biggest challenge we face is the threat of overseas competition and global politics, both of which can cause unforeseen problems, especially the speed at which these challenges occur, for example, the Middle East sanctions.

A further challenge is that of our designs being copied and re-produced in China, including having photographs we produce for our marketing scanned and used in other brands' catalogues.

The growth of e-commerce has been a further challenge. Packaging needs to change – five years ago we never had to make and supply/drop ship boxes.

The product offer is also vital, and understanding what the market will need next is critical.

Also, your machine-made Svetla glass factory is celebrating 50 years – what have been the main achievements?

The biggest achievement is our stemware plant, where investment was made in order to create a company with a diverse product offering. We can now see the switch in the market particularly because of cheap imports; we can weather the storm because we are skilled and diverse. We are now able to produce millions and millions of pieces each year and we sell to 82 countries.

Tell us more about the investments in your two factories?

We have a very aggressive plan for investment in both Svetla, our machine-made factory, and Kvetna, our handmade factory, and we recently installed a new stem-pulling machine in Kvetna – the first of four to be installed. New finishing machines and a new furnace will also be built.

In Svetla, we continue to look at what we can do to be a market leader and remain highly competitive, so new presses are planned there too.

Why the stemware segment?

The market for stemware is enormous – it's huge throughout the world, and whilst it is driven by taste and trend, it is a stable market. But, we want to have a competitive edge, both in machine and handmade glass. Giftware, however, is heavily driven by trend and therefore you can develop product and see it sell only slowly.

While many glass manufacturers are focusing less on handmade today, you are bucking the trend and investing in handmade with the Kvetna plant. Why?

The raise of sales in fine glassware has been huge, influenced by the changing trend in fine dining – people want to replicate the dining out experience at home. So, by supplying a superior product, we feel we can reach a greater audience.

Handmade will always carry a premium status element with it, so with the right product and the right branding we can offer collections suitable for high-end retail and e-commerce. Private label will also help us stabilise the business and we have some wonderful partners, but we also have a great opportunity to create new designs and a diverse portfolio.

However, the trick is the size of the factory. Svetla is huge and to change direction is a like trying to turn a large boat in a small area of water, whereas the handmade factory is more flexible – we can have some fun with it.

Kvetna was established in 1793 and is possibly the second oldest handmade factory in the Czech Republic, but it offers versatility. I enjoy it – it's small and highly manageable. Of course, we must look to the future and technology – our skills are traditional but that does not mean our thinking has to be traditional and our new showroom in Prague will show this, along with our New York showroom.

You'll also be re-launching the handmade Kvetna brand, with the new Cerva Bohemia brand, right?

With the handmade Cerva Bohemia brand, we will ensure the offering is competitive and delivers well-designed stemware and giftware. It will be a clean, beautifully-made product with equally beautiful packaging.

The new branding, which features our new Element logo, will be easily recognisable.

I am proud of how we have bucked tradition in this and are forging ahead to create a new luxury brand. It's nice to celebrate my 10 years of ownership and my enjoyment of glassmaking.

You will reveal Cerva Bohemia at Ambiente – what will we see?

Yes, our new branding will be shared at Ambiente – we've appointed a new London-based design agency to help create the correct branding.

Cerva Bohemia will be shown on the Crystalite Bohemia stand, but visitors will see the difference; as both my companies produce stemware, there must be a discernible and relatable point of difference.

Finally, what do you see as the company's recipe for success?

It's a simple recipe, – being competitive, offering creative designs and branding, and most of all, delivering quality!

Crystalite Bohemia

The glass company Crystalite Bohemia a.s. was established in October 2009 and today still produces glass from its manufacturing facility in Světlá nad Sázavou, in Vysocina area of the Czech Republic. This is the same site the original production facility was built in 1969. Then it included hand made glass but with the new ownership in 2009 it changed to be fully automated. Currently it employs around 750 people and has an annual turnover in excess of 45 million euros. The company exports its products to more than 82 countries world wide, and for the last ten years has been owned by Mr. Lubor Cerva, a Czech entrepreneur and investor.

Every day the factory produces more than 130 tons of glass, making Crystalite Bohemia one of the worlds largest glass factories producing both beverage and decorative glass items. This means the daily output is in excess of 170,000 items of beverage ware and around 24,000 pieces of decorative glassware.

We would kindly like to point out at our "Order form" which we have developed for you. It is easy and effective tool for ordering our products from our catalogue.

You can only fill up the intended quantities you want to order and our form will automatically calculate all the necessary figures for you e.g. total amount of your order, quantities, volume and weight.

In the form you may also see the percentage of filling up of the container size and many other important data. You can see the actual stock status of each articles and you may also find the nearest production date of the item planned in calendar weeks marked by "X" sign. (if the "X" mark is red coloured it signifies the capacity is not available anymore).

We believe you will find this form useful because it may save a lot of time and communication having all the packaging data right away.

It will also help us to speed up the issuing of order confirmations, proforma invoices etc.

As a small bonus we are offering 0.5% additional discount for placing the orders by using this form.
